Rose Gold* tells a story about the elusive nature of victory – and the often indefinable ingredients of what we know as “team culture”.

In following the Boomers’ path to their first bronze medal at the 2020 Olympics - their first-ever international podium - the film will examine how failure can be transformed into a powerful force that can inspire, galvanize, and revolutionise.

Featuring exclusive interviews filmed by Matthew Adekponya, Rose Gold tracks a pivotal moment in Australian basketball history. It looks at how a small group of men draw on their personal and collective heritage to change a sporting culture and cement the sport as a modern Australian game.
